This large electric kiln is often referred to as the "Mother Kiln" of Eagledale Pottery Studio as all wet work gets fired in this kiln first, before the glazing process can begin. It has been renovated multiple times over the past 20+ years. In more recent years, a new lid, new elements, and a new floor have helped to keep it going.

Staff has been aware that this kiln will need to be replaced at some point in the future. It misfired recently, causing some work to be damaged, and it is likely there will be more incidents like this due to the age of the kiln.

The unexpected $15,000 gift from the Hawk estate makes it possible to replace this large electric kiln with a new electric kiln, a Cone Art Oval 16.5 cubic foot for the price of $5586.00 which includes delivery.

Surplus value: The Eagledale Pottery Studio staff has recommended a minimum bid of $500 + buyer hauling it away would be a good starting price for this kiln.
